

Simple Frock Is Sheer and Cool

PATTERN 9386

9386

Keep a Weather Eye peeled for your comfort. This cool flattering gown will do itself (and you) proud in any member of the Sheer Frock Family. And that means cotton or silk according to your taste, and either a neat geometric or splashy floral is suitable. Just decide whether you want it for a handy little run around frock—or to fill another important niche in your summer wardrobe. Any figure will appreciate the flattery of the softness that gathers on to the smooth yoke, the airiness of the loose sleeve and the slenderness of that gracefully panelled skirt!

Pattern 9386 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 16 requires 3½ yards 36 inch fabric.

Complete, diagrammed sew chart included.

SEND FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER AND SIZE.

Send your order to the Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West Eighteenth Street, New York, N. Y.

HARD TO SELECT

Interviewer—Which ten books would you choose if you were cast upon a desert island?

Blond Novelist—It's hard to decide. I've written over 30, you know. In the last ten years—Stray Stories Magazine.

Bit by Bit

Unseen by the referee, the all-in wrestler bit his opponent severely. "You're biting!" hissed the snarling ferret.

"Well," gasped his adversary, "do yer expect me to swallow yer in a lump?"—Hystander Magazine.

Certainly Not

"James?" rebuked his mother. "I've told you not to say 'ain't.' Don't you know the King's English?"

"Sure, ma. He wouldn't be king of England if he wasn't."

And When to Stop

Betty—Jane's a pinhead.

Ann—No, she isn't. A pinhead knows just how far it can go.

WNU-12

36-47

There's Always Another Year

MARTHA OSTENSO

Copyright Martha Ostensio
WNU Service.

SYNOPSIS

To the little town of Heron River comes Anna Ostensio, daughter of "Gentle Jim" Ostensio, a gambler, news of whose murder in Chicago has reached the town. Sophronia Ward, Jim Ostensio's sister, is at the depot to meet Silver, the householder's son, and her stepson, the other half being Anna Ostensio, on Silver's arrival Duke McCloud, shiftless youth, makes himself obnoxious to Silver on the eve of his marriage to Corinne Mander. Silver declares her intention to live on the farm as it will not sell her. She moves into the Silver place. Sophronia, however, by request of her father, but by no means of her mother, with her father's money, marries Duke. She has a child, Corinne, who lives to annoy Silver. Silver's arrival Duke McCloud, shiftless youth, makes himself obnoxious to Silver on the eve of his marriage to Corinne Mander. Silver declares her intention to live on the farm as it will not sell her. She moves into the Silver place. Sophronia, however, by request of her father, but by no means of her mother, with her father's money, marries Duke. She has a child, Corinne, who lives to annoy Silver. Silver's arrival Duke McCloud, shiftless youth, makes himself obnoxious to Silver on the eve of his marriage to Corinne Mander. Silver declares her intention to live on the farm as it will not sell her. She moves into the Silver place. Sophronia, however, by request of her father, but by no means of her mother, with her father's money, marries Duke. She has a child, Corinne, who lives to annoy Silver.

CHAPTER VII—Continued

In the end, Roddy found himself battling alone against all these members of his family. Silver had taken no part in the discussion. As she listened, however, a conviction grew with her. Roddy Willard must accept the position that had been offered him. There was, as he had said, always another year for the farmer, but that had nothing to do with the problem. She knew—as the others knew, indeed—that what was in his heart when he had said that. But she knew what one of them knew. Had she not heard Freda Mander talk that afternoon in the past office? And she had seen enough herself.

At last Jason got up and left. Sophronia hunked the fire, and old T. Erick went out to bed.

"Well, I'll see you all tomorrow," Roddy said heavily and started for the door.

"Wait a minute, Roddy," Silver called out.

He turned and looked at her curiously.

"What's on your mind?" Roddy asked Silver, as soon as Sophronia had gone.

Silver laughed up at him with disarming naivete as she stood before him.

"I thought I'd just wait until everybody else got through talking," she said. Her glance fell for an instant from his. Then, summoning all her fortitude, she spoke. "You've got to take this position, Roddy. You are a fool to stay on here—starvation staring you in the face—with a respectable living offered you."

"My dear child!" Roddy exclaimed. "You look almost motherly just now. You want me to take the job—for my own good, eh?"

"That's part of it," she admitted lightly. "But I agree with Phronie. Corinne hates the farm."

"Corinne will be all right when she sees to understand it a little better."

Suddenly, Silver's body stiffened. "There's something more, too," she said, her chin rising coolly, indifferently. "When your lease is up next summer, I'm going to sell my section."

She saw him blink for a moment as though he had not heard right. Then he took a step toward her. "I don't believe you," he said. "What has changed your mind about this place all of a sudden? There's something else back of this."

"There isn't," she burst out passionately. "For God's sake, get out before—before you're ruined!"

Her words seemed to be scurrying over each other now, she thought in panic. But he should not wring the truth from her—he should not!

Roddy's voice came in a hoarse whisper from his clenched teeth. "You fool! My G-d, I thought you had more right in you than that." He turned away from her and moved toward the door, then looked back quickly. "All right—go ahead! I might have known what to expect when I began dealing with a woman. Well, she'll be here tomorrow if you want to. But I'm going to stay until I'm kicked out."

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

"You are being a fool!" she told him, starting to keep back the hot tears. "What will that bring you?"

"It won't bring me the kind of money you've handed me, by G-d!" he barked, and plunged out into the darkness, slamming the door behind him.

real escape in such a flight, as there had been in her flight from Gerald Lucas. Gerald had not been real, any way; the hard ground beneath her feet seemed to tell her that now.

She had been too selfishly absorbed during the past few days to give any thought to what Sophronia might feel about her going away. Poor old Phronie—how little she knew of what was going on about her. The more she thought of it, the more convinced Silver became that Roddy Willard would remain on this land until he was forced to leave it. Her threat to sell the land had done nothing except to make him more stubborn in his determination to remain. She was made desolate by the knowledge that he was as passionately devoted to this land as she was herself.

She thought vehemently, tears dimming her eyes now, not for any unhappiness, outrageous love of Roddy Willard would she give up her life here!

The Flatts children greeted her with their usual uproarious good humor. These Norwegian youngsters lived in a merry cosmos of their own where even poverty was something to laugh at. Six of them there were, ranging from seven years of age to thirteen, with enough boisterous enthusiasm to turn the little farmhouse into a babel. Silver played the do-crochet little organ, and sang with the children until the gathering darkness warned her that it was time to leave.

On the way home, she came upon Jason and Paula beside a thicket of hazel bushes. Paula looked at Silver without surprise or embarrassment, and Jason's dark eyes smiled at her.

The three began their walk home together. When they came before the big house, Jason paused. "Come along in, Silver," he invited. "I have something to show you. I wouldn't have the nerve to ask you—but we have the house all to ourselves. I've been making a picture of Paula," he confessed. "And I thought maybe you'd like to look at it."

"It's much prettier than me," Paula said modestly.

"Oh—why, I'd love to see it," Silver replied eagerly, going toward the door.

They entered the house and Jason led the way to the attic and lighted the lamp. In the "studio," on a birchwood easel reclined a droid but far from unrecognizable portrait of Paula Gobel. The powerful and intimidating Valkyrie limned there might easily have been a Teutonic ancestress of Paula's.

For some time Silver had suspected that there was more between Jason and Paula than they were willing to reveal to their little world. Whatever ultimate expression it achieved mattered not at all. It was there and they shared it.

"Jason—I'm amazed!" she burst forth at last. "Why—it's really great!"

"Gosh," Jason sighed with relief. "I was scared to show it to you. I thought maybe I'd worked it over too much. But do you think it's good enough to give to Phronie for a Christmas present? That was my idea. She likes pictures, you know."

"She'll love it, Jason," Silver assured him. "I know she will. But why don't you ask me to sit for you some time?"

Jason smiled a bit sheepishly. "I'm not so good as all that. You've got—I don't know what it is." He shrugged.

With Silver, it soon became an acute necessity. She had come here seeking peace and had gradually become the center of a situation that was growing more intolerable every day. She tried to talk about it with Sophronia, but it was impossible to reveal to her all that had prompted her to act as she had done. She decided to go to Gerald Lucas, though she knew Gerald would only laugh at her.

It was a black, blustery night, and Silver put on her old leather jacket and her close-fitting tweed hat. She went out into the inky darkness and started toward the summit of the hill, when a sudden flash of light, like the striking of a match, arrested her attention through the small window of Roddy's workshop in the shelter of the slope.

Roddy must be in there, she thought, getting ready for another night's work. The thought of his self-imposed loneliness smote drearily across Silver's heart. Why should she not go to him now and talk to him—beg him not to remain away from his father's house because of her?

She stepped to the threshold and paused. "Roddy!" she called softly. He scooped up handfuls of corn.

"Well?"

"I came over to beg you not to—stay away from your house because of me," Silver said. "If that's the reason—"

He stood up and looked at her. At the painful flush that sprang into her cheeks, he stepped toward her with contrite haste. His feelings were in such confusion now that he could scarcely speak.

"I'm sorry, Silver," he said heavily. "It's certainly no time for me to hold out against you—after this. We don't seem to understand each other, that's all."

Silver turned her eyes from him. "I can't go on like this," she said. "It hasn't been any misery."

"I can't say I've been enjoying it myself," he looked down at her and saw that she shivering. "But listen—you'd better get back into the house," he remarked gruffly. "I'll try to clear this place up a little." He reached down and drew her to her feet, then took her hand in the most acute em-because I like farming that I get a kick out of doing this once in a while. Which one do you want, Sil very.

After a moment's thought, Silver selected a light autumn sketch in grays and browns.

"Has Roddy never seen this?" she asked.

"No—he hasn't seen any of them. I used to show him some of my things—and he liked them. But after he met Corinne—well, it's none of my business. I never could quite figure it out, myself. D—d—d—I feel sorry for Roddy."

Silver tucked the drawing under her arm. "I'll hang this one in my room," she said, then started toward the door. "And don't worry about Roddy. When a man falls in love, it does funny things to him sometimes."

Jason laughed. "Gosh, doesn't it?" he exclaimed, and looked at Paula. "Still I tell Silver," he asked suddenly.

"Sure," Paula said at once.

"Jason" looked at Silver and smiled. "Paula and I are going to be married in the summer," Jason confessed. "—maybe in the spring. We're thinking of a little dairy farm up north—maybe we're not sure yet."

Silver exclaimed with delight. "Am I the first to hear about it?"

"We didn't know ourselves—not until this afternoon," Jason grinned.

Tears came into Silver's eyes as she looked at them. Jason and Paula—beginning life together on a dairy farm.

"Don't say anything," Jason said, putting his arm about Paula. "But don't tell the others just yet."

"Well, I suppose I ought to wish you luck," Silver said. "But when two people are in love, there's nothing much anyone can say. Isn't that so, Paula?"

"It sure is so," Paula agreed lapsing into an accent she had almost conquered since her advent from the hillside ten years ago.

The days passed, and Silver Grenoble came presently to know what it meant to live on a farm in winter. But the weekly round of hard work fell into a rhythm which somehow eased the discomfort, and in the old stone house there was always an overtone of contentment.

In Roddy alone, it seemed, was there any discontent. He had explained that Mrs. Mander had not been well and that Corinne was staying with her for a few days. But when the middle of December approached and Corinne was still with her mother, Sophronia became rather volatile on the subject of Roddy's living alone in the big house. For Roddy had withdrawn more and more to himself. His days he spent in work about the place. And at night he would shut himself in his "shop" sorting and grading and completing his records, so as to be ready for another season of experimenting with his beloved corn.

Roddy's mood was rarely discussed by the others, but Silver knew that beneath their silence lay an intensity of feeling that one day must break the bonds of reticence that held it. She knew, too, that while Corinne's absence had something to do with the way Roddy felt, behind it all was the growing resentment toward herself that had begun that night when she had told him of her intention to sell her land as soon as his lease had expired. That had rankled until he could think of nothing else. She knew, too, that the family was aware of it. That, undoubtedly, accounted for much of their restraint.

With Silver, it soon became an acute necessity. She had come here seeking peace and had gradually become the center of a situation that was growing more intolerable every day. She tried to talk about it with Sophronia, but it was impossible to reveal to her all that had prompted her to act as she had done. She decided to go to Gerald Lucas, though she knew Gerald would only laugh at her.

It was a black, blustery night, and Silver put on her old leather jacket and her close-fitting tweed hat. She went out into the inky darkness and started toward the summit of the hill, when a sudden flash of light, like the striking of a match, arrested her attention through the small window of Roddy's workshop in the shelter of the slope.

Roddy must be in there, she thought, getting ready for another night's work. The thought of his self-imposed loneliness smote drearily across Silver's heart. Why should she not go to him now and talk to him—beg him not to remain away from his father's house because of her?

She stepped to the threshold and paused. "Roddy!" she called softly. He scooped up handfuls of corn.

"Well?"

"I came over to beg you not to—stay away from your house because of me," Silver said. "If that's the reason—"

He stood up and looked at her. At the painful flush that sprang into her cheeks, he stepped toward her with contrite haste. His feelings were in such confusion now that he could scarcely speak.

"I'm sorry, Silver," he said heavily. "It's certainly no time for me to hold out against you—after this. We don't seem to understand each other, that's all."

Silver turned her eyes from him. "I can't go on like this," she said. "It hasn't been any misery."

"I can't say I've been enjoying it myself," he looked down at her and saw that she shivering. "But listen—you'd better get back into the house," he remarked gruffly. "I'll try to clear this place up a little." He reached down and drew her to her feet, then took her hand in the most acute em-because I like farming that I get a kick out of doing this once in a while. Which one do you want, Sil very.

After a moment's thought, Silver selected a light autumn sketch in grays and browns.

"Has Roddy never seen this?" she asked.

"No—he hasn't seen any of them. I used to show him some of my things—and he liked them. But after he met Corinne—well, it's none of my business. I never could quite figure it out, myself. D—d—d—I feel sorry for Roddy."

Silver tucked the drawing under her arm. "I'll hang this one in my room," she said, then started toward the door. "And don't worry about Roddy. When a man falls in love, it does funny things to him sometimes."

Jason laughed. "Gosh, doesn't it?" he exclaimed, and looked at Paula. "Still I tell Silver," he asked suddenly.

"Sure," Paula said at once.

"Jason" looked at Silver and smiled. "Paula and I are going to be married in the summer," Jason confessed. "—maybe in the spring. We're thinking of a little dairy farm up north—maybe we're not sure yet."

Silver exclaimed with delight. "Am I the first to hear about it?"

"We didn't know ourselves—not until this afternoon," Jason grinned.

Tears came into Silver's eyes as she looked at them. Jason and Paula—beginning life together on a dairy farm.

"Don't say anything," Jason said, putting his arm about Paula. "But don't tell the others just yet."

"Well, I suppose I ought to wish you luck," Silver said. "But when two people are in love, there's nothing much anyone can say. Isn't that so, Paula?"

"It sure is so," Paula agreed lapsing into an accent she had almost conquered since her advent from the hillside ten years ago.

The days passed, and Silver Grenoble came presently to know what it meant to live on a farm in winter. But the weekly round of hard work fell into a rhythm which somehow eased the discomfort, and in the old stone house there was always an overtone of contentment.

In Roddy alone, it seemed, was there any discontent. He had explained that Mrs. Mander had not been well and that Corinne was staying with her for a few days. But when the middle of December approached and Corinne was still with her mother, Sophronia became rather volatile on the subject of Roddy's living alone in the big house. For Roddy had withdrawn more and more to himself. His days he spent in work about the place. And at night he would shut himself in his "shop" sorting and grading and completing his records, so as to be ready for another season of experimenting with his beloved corn.

Roddy's mood was rarely discussed by the others, but Silver knew that beneath their silence lay an intensity of feeling that one day must break the bonds of reticence that held it. She knew, too, that while Corinne's absence had something to do with the way Roddy felt, behind it all was the growing resentment toward herself that had begun that night when she had told him of her intention to sell her land as soon as his lease had expired. That had rankled until he could think of nothing else. She knew, too, that the family was aware of it. That, undoubtedly, accounted for much of their restraint.

With Silver, it soon became an acute necessity. She had come here seeking peace and had gradually become the center of a situation that was growing more intolerable every day. She tried to talk about it with Sophronia, but it was impossible to reveal to her all that had prompted her to act as she had done. She decided to go to Gerald Lucas, though she knew Gerald would only laugh at her.

It was a black, blustery night, and Silver put on her old leather jacket and her close-fitting tweed hat. She went out into the inky darkness and started toward the summit of the hill, when a sudden flash of light, like the striking of a match, arrested her attention through the small window of Roddy's workshop in the shelter of the slope.

Roddy must be in there, she thought, getting ready for another night's work. The thought of his self-imposed loneliness smote drearily across Silver's heart. Why should she not go to him now and talk to him—beg him not to remain away from his father's house because of her?

She stepped to the threshold and paused. "Roddy!" she called softly. He scooped up handfuls of corn.

"Well?"

"I came over to beg you not to—stay away from your house because of me," Silver said. "If that's the reason

OUR COMIC SECTION

Along the Concrete

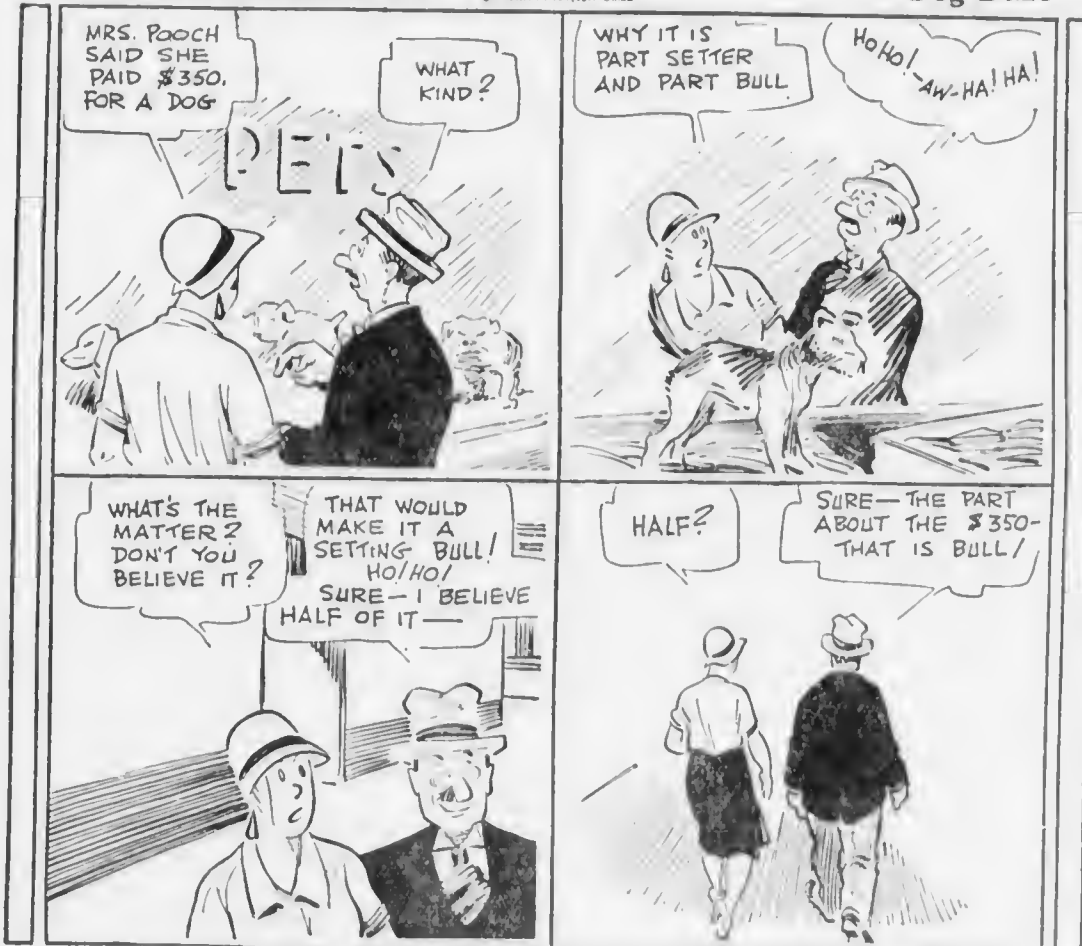

GYPSYING

THE FEATHERHEADS

By Osborne
© Western Newspaper Union

Dog Daze

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

By Ted O'Loughlin
© By Western Newspaper Union

Under Suspicion

Typhoon and Floods Sweep Large Section of China

Nature was not done with China when great floods drowned thousands in the valleys of the Huang and Yangtze rivers. In Fukien province, south of the mouth of the Yangtze, a typhoon came booming in off the South China sea recently. The great circular storm swept across the land, destroying the works of man and leveling many. Just to be sure that no destruction was complete, nature unleashed a second typhoon of the following day. After each storm came the rains flooding the streams and drowning thousands.

As usual in Chinese disasters, poor communication facilities prevented an accurate check on the damage. The center of the storm passed over Chinneloh, north of Amoy, but the damage was spread all through the province. Some 20,000,000 people are packed into the province, the chief industry of which is the growing of tea.

Added to the actual storm damage was the report that bubonic plague had broken out at Lungyen, 100 miles west of Chinneloh. With 80 per cent of the buildings in the area down and the country rendered impassable by the floods, fear was great that disease would become widespread and, as often happens in China, take even more lives than the fury of nature.

With the reports of the storms in China came the news that a typhoon had also swept across northern and central Luzon, most northerly of the Philippine islands. More than one hundred and twenty-five were dead, with thousands homeless, as day Frank Murphy mobilized relief and Red Cross forces. Whether it was the same typhoon that struck in China was not known.

The typhoon that struck in the Far East is the same sort of a storm as the hurricanes so common off the southeastern coast of the United States. Both are the same, the only difference being in the local name of a particular kind of storm. The term, which is essentially the same sort of storm except that it originates on and lives its destructive life over the land.

The basis of the typhoon is the difference between heated and cool air. Hot air is lighter than cool air. Added to the difference in air pressure is the fact that freely moving bodies in the northern hemisphere tend to deflect to the right of their course. This of course does not apply to mountainous contrivances, such as an automobile, but does apply to ocean currents and to the wind. For example, the major compasses in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans turn toward the right of their course of flow. While it cannot be seen, the wind does the same. On the sea, a storm comes over the horizon to the left. If there is no satisfactory explanation for it.

In the formation of a typhoon, or hurricane, a small island becomes heated under the rays of the sun. Since land absorbs heat more rapidly than water, the island becomes hotter than the water which surrounds it. The column of air above the island is also heated by contact with the land and radiation from the land and becomes less dense, or lighter, than the air over the water.

Into the column of hot air, known as a low pressure center, the cooler and heavier air flows. Always the rushing air is deflected to the right of its course (in the northern hemisphere). The result is a circular whirl in the air, pulling in low pressure areas, causing a swirling column of air in a counterclockwise direction. As time and more air are drawn in, the low pressure area becomes a cyclone.

To shift the center of a low pressure area, the center of the low must be warmer than the air which is pushing it during a summer day. Therefore there is a constant movement of air toward the land from the oceans. This landward rushing wind is known as a monsoon, but the low pressure area is so large over a continental land mass that the whirling motion of the typhoon is not set up, the force of air movement being expended in attempting to reach the center of the continent.

The small circular air disturbance, or typhoon, is caught up in the landward rush of the larger masses of air. Due to the velocity it has gained it may continue to spin until it reaches the shore, as did the recent destructive typhoon which swept across the hurricanes that reach the coast of Florida. The great force of the circular storm is then often great enough even after a long journey across the water to do much damage.

Voice of Pele Is Signal for Gathering at Volcano

When Vesuvius in Italy and Kilauea in the United States sent rumbling disaster threats, but when the United States observatory on Kilauea reports a pending eruption tourists and residents in Hawaii flock to witness the eruptions.

The voice of Pele, goddess of Hawaiian mythology, said to dwell in the fiery pit, is sometimes brooding to manifest Pele's states by means of a microphone dropped into the crater. Dr. Thomas A. Jagger, volcanologist in charge of the crater's rim, accompanies the rumblings with a graphic description of the churning lava.

According to Doctor Jagger, if the great Kilauea State building were to be placed on the floor of the pit its roaring must would scarcely be at eye level at the crater's rim. The Bremen launched down Kilauea's slope could be followed by the eruption and a United States battleship, and all three would disappear from view.

One of the lava geysers during the eruption is like an inverted Niagara falls, shooting into the air 350 feet. The surface of the molten lake which fills the bottom of the pit resembles a shatter-proof window, and when the sun strikes a terrible flow. Spouting jets, each red hot, run in all directions, join each other and spread out over a giant splinter web, radiating from the center fountain. Between the scalding cracks the lava has cooled and has turned a jet black. As the fountain plays, waves as big as Walkie's largest rollers travel to the furthest corners of the pit. The movement is constant, never ceasing, and yet so safe that crowds rush to get a close-up view.

The Choice of Millions KC BAKING POWDER

Double Tested — Double Action

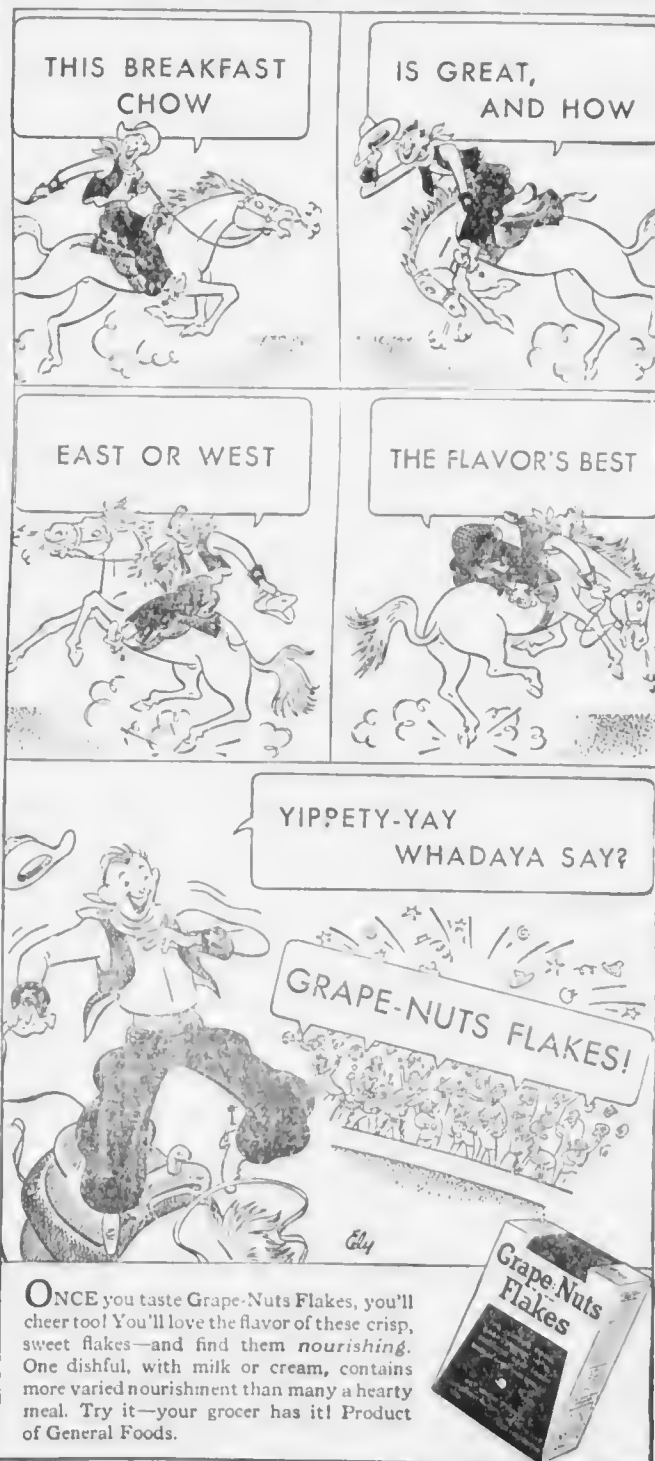

Manufactured by baking powder Specialists who make nothing but baking powder — under supervision of expert chemists. Same Price Today as 44 Years Ago

25 ounces for 25¢

You can also buy A full 10 ounce can for 10¢ 15 ounce can for 15¢

Highest Quality — Always Dependable

MILLIONS OF POUNDS HAVE BEEN USED BY OUR GOVERNMENT

"AMERICAN HERO" ALBUM....FREE!

just save coupons with

ARBUCKLE'S ARIOSA COFFEE

Think of it! Coffee so delicious that it's pleased family after family — year after year — for 75 years! Perfected by Arbuckle Brothers — sold by your own grocer. And now in every package of this famous coffee — a beautiful 4-color picture of some outstanding American hero. Save 12 of them and get handsome Album free. Boys! Girls! Tell mother to buy ARBUCKLE ARIOSA — and save the coupons!

The Courier

MEMBER
KENTUCKY PRESS ASSOCIATION
Organized 1904

Entered as second class matter, April 7, 1910, post office at West Liberty, Ky., under act of congress.

Subscription Price $1.50 a Year
Advance

Advertising rates: a column inch each insertion local advertising, 50c a column inch per insertion.
Classified advertising, 1c a word. Readers, 1c a line.

Late delivery cards of thanks, resolutions of respect, etc., 5c a line.

Published every Thursday by
COURIER PUBLISHING COMPANY
F. S. HIRSH, Editor
ROSE O. HIRSH, Business Manager

ANNOUNCEMENTS

We are authorized to announce
WILLIAM JOHNSON of Lenox

as a candidate for member of the County Board of Education of Morgan county subject to the will of the voters at the regular election Nov. 5, 1935.

FARMERS' COLUMN

THE FARM AND HOME

Cook pork well. Raw or imperfectly cooked pork and its products may cause a disease known as trichinosis, which often is serious, and sometimes fatal. Pork, when properly prepared, is a highly nourishing food, rich in protein, fat, and vitamin B.

Now is the time to do the final culling of low layers from the poultry flock. Feed is too high to keep poor layers. The egg outlook appears favorable to the owners of good flocks, and profits should be good where production is well maintained.

Many farmers do not cut alfalfa after about the middle of September, thus leaving three or four weeks for growth for winter. As cool weather slows up top growth, food material is stored in the roots where it helps to resist injury from heaving.

A tablespoonful of castor oil will often help a turkey made sick by eating green corn, especially if given soon after it becomes sick. It is best to keep turkeys out of cornfields in the early fall, or feed them so heavy that they will not eat the green corn.

Extensive tests indicate that more twin lambs are obtained when ewes are in a grazing condition just before and during breeding time. Extra feeding, or turning ewes on good pasture has proved the best way to get more twin lambs.

Cows on test have been found to produce more than double the average production of all cows. The cost of feeding high producing cows was more than that for average cows, but not twice as much, which means that profits were better for members of improved associations.

Rye Is Best Cover Crop

Soil experts connected with the Kentucky agricultural experiment station give rye first place among cover crops for Kentucky. It will grow on almost any soil, may be sown early or late, grows thru most of the winter, and makes good winter pasture. It also is a fairly satisfactory nurse crop for young grass and clover.

Wheat and winter barley and winter oats are other small grains that make satisfactory cover crops, but generally are not considered as good as rye.

Dr. Ferguson points out that small grains intended for cover crop purposes only should be sown about a third heavier than when sown for a combined grain and nurse crop. Late seedlings should be heavier than early seedlings.

Other crops sometimes used for cover purposes and in addition for pasture include crimson clover, hairy vetch, and the mixed grasses and legumes.

Crimson clover makes a heavy winter and early spring pasture. In addition to covering the soil it tends to enrich it, especially when plowed under in the spring.

Hairy vetch is a soil builder and a good green manure crop.

The soil and crops men at the experiment station on the value of cover crops under Kentucky conditions, it states the soil from losses of plant nutrients by erosion, and control erosion and leaching as follows:

Soil Conservation

A nation's future "When soil is lost, it is lost" will strike the keynote of the soil conservation exhibit of the University of Kentucky college of agriculture at the Kentucky state fair, Sept. 5 to 11.

The exhibit will be pictured two types of soil erosion and the other protected by terraces, contour plowing, cover crops, and other methods of saving the soil.

The soil conservation theme will be further developed in an animal husbandry exhibit about methods of making poor soil pay thru pasture improvement. This exhibit will show some of the work done in the development of bluegrass pasture on poor limestone land at the western Kentucky agricultural experiment station at Princeton.

The college's state fair exhibit, which will be in its regular place in the grandstand building, also will include 4-H club work, home demonstration work, weed control, potato growing, poultry raising, dairying, insect control, and farm management.

Sixty to 70 counties will send trained teams to enter the 4-H club livestock judging contest on Wednesday, sponsored by the college of agriculture, the Courier-Journal, the Louisville Stock Yards company, the Evans-Von Albion Milk company, and the Kentucky Hatchery. Fat cattle, swine, and sheep, dairy, cattle, and poultry will be judged by the club members.

CROCKETT

Sept. 2.—Gus Fultz has moved from Benson branch to the Susan Wolfenberger property here.

Ellen Ferguson has moved from Elkfork to the H. H. Cox property here.

W. H. Rosberry of Grayson visited his mother here last Saturday and Sunday.

J. W. Oliver held meeting at Lew Conley's last Sunday.

Carl Hatchison, who works at Portsmouth, Ohio, visited home folks last Saturday and Sunday.

Ray Hatchison and family, of Elkfork, visited Lewis Conley last Sunday.

A. L. Conley of Lenox visited his father here last Saturday and Sunday.

Earl Polfrey of West Liberty was here Sunday.

Martha Polfrey of Bluffs was here Sunday.

J. W. Fannin went to Morehead last Monday on business.

MOUNTAIN BOY

Master Commissioner's Sale
MORGAN CIRCUIT COURT, KY.
C. W. Williams & Ethel Williams, Plaintiffs
vs.
J. H. Coffee and Nancy A. Coffee, Defendants.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Morgan circuit court, rendered at the August term, 1935, in the above styled cause, I will offer for sale at the front door of the court house in West Liberty, Kentucky, on Monday, the 23rd day of September, 1935, at 1 o'clock p.m., or thereabouts, upon a credit of six months, the following described property, to wit:

A certain tract of land in Morgan county, Kentucky, and on Rockhous creek of Licking river, and known as follows:

Beginning on a line 1/4 sec. 1, T. 36 N., R. 10 E., 1st Meridian, to the corner of a bank, so as to include the old garden now in orchard; thence with the center of the point to the top of the ridge to a black oak and gum thence with the ridge to Lydia Kennerly's line; thence with her line to Wallace Brown's line to at the stand on the bank of the creek, near the 1931 road; thence east with the old county road to the beginning; containing 60 acres, more or less, being the same land conveyed to James Collins and wife from John W. Coffee, by deed being dated 21 January, 1919, and recorded in deed book 18, page 79.

This judgment was rendered in favor of C. W. Williams and Ethel Williams his wife, at the August term, 1935, of the Morgan circuit court, for $275.00 with 6 percent interest from the 6th day of April, 1935, and thence, heretofore.

The purchaser will be required to execute bond, bearing 6 percent interest from date, with approved security.

This 2nd day of September, 1935.
HARLEN MURPHY, MCMCC.
J. H. Hinkle, Attorney.

Master Commissioner's Sale

MORGAN CIRCUIT COURT, KY.
W. P. Patton, Plaintiff
vs.
L. F. Martin & Verma Martin, Defendants.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Morgan circuit court, rendered at the August term, 1935, in the above styled cause, I will offer for sale at the front door of the court house in West Liberty, Kentucky, on Monday, the 23rd day of September, 1935, at 10 o'clock a.m., or thereabouts, upon a credit of six months, the following described property, to wit:

A tract of land lying and being in the county of Morgan and state of Kentucky, and on the waters of Tappan branch, a tributary of Grassy creek and bounded as follows:

Beginning near John Carpenter's farm line at a rock, a small white oak, thence a north course with the double fence to a white oak tree; thence a north course to a walnut; thence north to a maple corner W. J. Perry and H. M. Carpenter; thence nearly east to the branch below W. J. Perry's house; thence down said branch to the county road to a set stone marked "X"; thence south east course to a cedar; said south east corner what school land so long as it is kept for school purposes; thence an agreed line from the cedar to a set stone marked "X"; thence a straight line to Halo Barker's line to a set stone; thence with Halo Barker's line to a spring; thence and surrounded and gum on the road below J. M. Carpenter's house; thence north east 24 poles to a white oak; N. 19 E., 26 poles to a white oak; S. 76 W., 10 poles to a white oak; N. 34 west 5 poles to the beginning.

This land is being sold for judgment rendered in the Morgan circuit court at its August, 1935, term, in favor of W. P. Patton, for $872.00 with interest thereon at the rate of 6 percent from the 8th day of January, 1935, until paid, and the cost of this action.

The purchaser will be required to execute bond, bearing 6 percent interest from date, with approved security, for the purchase money.

This 2nd day of September, 1935.
HARLEN MURPHY, MCMCC.
H. C. Rose, Attorney.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Campbell, who was badly hurt in a car wreck and taken to a hospital, is improving.

Master Commissioner's Sale

MORGAN CIRCUIT COURT, KY.
Commercial Bank of West Liberty, Plaintiff
vs.
W. M. Fannin, etc., Defendants.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Morgan circuit court, rendered at the August term, 1935, in the above styled cause, I will offer for sale at the front door of the court house in West Liberty, Kentucky, on Monday, the 23rd day of September, 1935, at 1 o'clock p.m., or thereabouts, upon a credit of six months, the following described property, to wit:

No. 2 which is described and bounded as follows, to wit:

Tract Two, A certain tract or parcel of land lying and being in Morgan county, Kentucky, on the Big Mandy fork of Road fork of Straight creek, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a set stone in the gap between Big Mandy branch and another branch of the Road fork of Straight creek in the line of Ed Elliott and W. L. Conley; thence a southeasterly course to fork of drain; thence down the railroad to a set stone near a sycamore near the railroad right of way; thence a southeasterly direction to a large stump on the bank of Big Mandy branch; thence up the drain a southerly course to a fork point; thence a straight line up the fork point to the top of the ridge and D. N. Trumble line to a set stone; thence bounded on the east by the lands of D. N. Trumble and bounded on the north by the lands of Emmet Spencer and the Lewis Sawmill company and on the west by the lands of W. L. Conley. Containing 30 acres, be the same more or less, but to include all the lands owned by first party on said creek.

Being the same land conveyed to said Martin Fannin by Clifford Adkins and wife by deed dated the 12th day of January, 1932, and recorded in deed book 61, page 188, Morgan county clerk's office.

This is to be sold free from all liens. The purchaser will be required to execute bond, bearing 6 percent interest from date, with approved security, for the purchase money.

This 2nd day of September, 1935.
HARLEN MURPHY, MCMCC.
W. M. Gardner, Attorney.

Annual Meeting at Daysboro

The Churches of Christ of this annual district, composed of Magoffin, Morgan, Wolfe, and Rowan counties, will hold their annual meeting at Daysboro, Wolfe county, beginning at 2 o'clock Friday evening before the third Sunday in September, 1935.

C. S. LITTLE, Clerk
J. P. WALTER, Chairman

100 Calotabs 250

BILIOUSNESS

In The Run-off Primary SATURDAY SEPT. 7

Vote For

B. M. Vincent

Democratic Candidate For

Attorney-General

HE IS AN EXPERIENCED AND CAPABLE LAWYER
WHOSE HONESTY AND INTEGRITY IS ABOVE REPROACH

He has served as County Judge of Edmonson county and as State Senator from his Senatorial district. He will add strength to the ticket in November election.

He served in the office of Attorney-General Charles H. Morris and is thoroughly familiar with the responsibilities, and qualified to perform the duties of the office.

He is a Veteran of the World War

Don't Overlook Voting for VINCENT for ATTORNEY-GENERAL
HE SOLICITS YOUR VOTE AND SUPPORT

OLD FOLKS IN STATE TO GET $230.00 CASH FROM STATE FAIR

For Both Men and Women—Married or Single.

HEALTHIEST MAN over 70 to get $50. Next healthiest, over 70, $25. The third healthiest over 70, $15. HEALTHIEST WOMAN over 70 to get $50. Next healthiest, over 70, $25. The third healthiest, over 70, $15. FOR COUPLES—Healthiest couple, man and wife, over 70, to get $50.

Since so many of the "Old Folks" of the State have always come to, and so enjoyed the State Fair, the management has decided to give all the healthiest of over 70 years of age, a chance to get a lot of money this year—$90 in cash to the three healthiest men over 70; $90 to the three healthiest women over 70, and $50 to the HEALTHIEST COUPLE over 70.

NOTE THIS, PLEASE!
FREE EXAMINATIONS of all applicants will be made by skillful doctors at the State Fair Grounds, Louisville, Ky., throughout the entire Fair week, beginning Monday, Sept. 9, but all who enter this health contest, will have to fill out the coupon, below, and send it in at once, by mail, only, to the "Old Folks" Health Contest, Republic Bldg., 5th & Walnut Sts., Louisville, Ky.

You are coming, anyhow, to this, the greatest State Fair ever held in Kentucky; so get this fine health examination, free, and a chance at some of this cash.

THIS IS THE COUPON TO SEND IN

To the Ky. State Fair's "Old Folks" Contest, Republic Bldg., Louisville, Ky. I desire to enter the contest:

Name.....Age.....
Address.....
Man..... Woman..... Couple.....

REDUCE GOVERNMENT COST

There are two views of government. One view, generally held by officials and those whom they can influence, seeks to collect all the money which the people will pay without too much complaint.

The other view is that of the people who pay the cost of government in taxes. The people want good government and are willing to pay for it. But they do not want their money spent for improper or unnecessary purposes.

According to the judgment of efficiency experts Kentucky carries on its payroll more than two men for each job. And many of the jobs are of no useful purpose to the state.

When the state government is put on a business basis we will not need the Sales Tax.

REPEAL THE SALES TAX

Chandler Campaign Committee

(Advertisement)

DON'T FAIL TO VOTE IN THE Run-off Primary, Sat., Sept. 7

For

John E. Buckingham

Democratic Candidate For

State Treasurer

He has the endorsement of the Bankers and Leading Democrats who have the Financial Interest of the State at Heart.

His wide experience in Banking makes Him Eminently Qualified and Competent to Discharge the Duties of that Important Office.

He Is The Logical Nominee For Final Election
He Will Add Strength to the Democratic Ticket in the November Election

J. P. GOZDER, Publicity Chairman

MISS SARA W. MAHAN

Seeking Democratic Nomination For

State Treasurer

is deeply appreciative of the fine tribute paid to her in the August primary, when she received 78,708 votes to 41,044 for the nearest contender in the Treasurer's race.

Vote For Her Sept. 7th

"She saved you money as Secretary of State—Let her save you more as State Treasurer."

Supported by Leading Bankers

One of the best records as State Treasurer ever made in the state was made by a woman—Remember this when you vote September 7. Thank you! SARA W. MAHAN.

MORGAN COUNTY SCHOOL PAGE

(Under Auspices of Ova O. Haney, County Supt.)

IMPORTANT CONFERENCE

Dear Teachers—
There will be a conference in zone 3 on Friday, Sept. 13, 1935, at Wrigley. All teachers are requested to be present. Much needed information will be given on this date.

Your presence counts points toward your bonus. The following program will be given:

—Rev. M. B. White

10:30 Song: There Are Many Places in Many Lands.

10:30 Word of Greeting.

—Prof. Clyde Lewis

10:30 Relation of Teacher to Community.

—W. O. Pelfrey

11:00 Teaching of Music in Rural Schools.

—Mildred White

11:30 Discipline in Rural Schools.

—Anna Henry

11:45 Noon.

1:00 Special music.

1:15 Teaching of First Grade Reading.

—Mrs. Nancy Turner

1:30 Presentation of History Unit.

—Gladys Short

2:00 Teaching of Silent Reading.

—Florida Cox

2:30 Round Table Discussion.

—Led by Supr. Ova O. Haney

The following teachers in zone three will meet at Wrigley on Friday, Sept. 13, 1935: Woodrow Barber, Ray Cassidy, James V. Day, Raymond Davis, Reva Elam, Oran Elam, Dexter Evans, Melba Fairchild, Cummings Fugate, Emory Green, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hale, Henry Howard, Herbert Lawson, Maye LeMaster, Iva Lewis, Wayne Lewis, Arley Lewis, Glenora McKenzie, Wendell Nickell, Mada Patrick, Ima Ratliff, Henry Wells, Ollie Fanning, Gladys Short, Altha Cash.

FLORIS V. COX,

ANNA E. HENRY,

Helping Teachers

WHAT PRICED TEACHERS?

We as teachers are the most important factor in the school organization of this county.

In recognizing this fact let us then give our worth. No long ago I heard a noted educator say that there were several hundred teachers in the state of Kentucky who were being overpaid, notwithstanding the fact the salaries were very low.

We have all too often the hasty decision to teach "until something else turns up," a scramble to make the semester hours demanded by the state requirements, and teaching perhaps for several years with an eye single to a better opening in other work.

While it can hardly be said that teachers are born, not made, still, a great deal depends upon the teacher's scholarship, professional training, and personality. Let us then strive to increase our ability. Most important of all, I think, is the correct attitude toward our work and county school system.

Last week a teacher said to me, "I know I hate to teach school worse than anybody." A teacher with this attitude can never hope to succeed.

Morgan county doesn't need any halfhearted school teachers, kickers, or teachers resentful toward administration help.

Let us ask ourselves if we are doing justice to our position, and are we giving value received?

I am heartily in favor of the help-line teachers program and shall give my utmost support to make it successful. Our cooperation is necessary to extend this program and give it more far-reaching influence. The helping teachers want our support and we should be ever ready to let them help us with our pupil problems.

The pupil is looking to us for encouragement and it is our problem to see that he gets it.

What pupils desire most is the inspiration to learn and do. The teacher who can impart this enthusiasm for education is the one who makes the greatest contribution to its continued growth and success.

J. WENDELL NICKELL

NOTICE

Emergency education classes in home economics and physical education will begin Monday, Sept. 9, in the basement of the Methodist church.

There are no school credits given, and it is free for everybody over sixteen years of age. Let's everybody come and learn something new every day.

These classes are taught five days a week. The home economics class will be taught from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. The physical education class will be given from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. If this time is not convenient let me know and I'll change it to other hours.

OPAL WATSON ELAM

COAL BIDS WANTED

The Morgan county board of education will accept sealed bids for the furnishing of coal to the West Liberty, Camden City, Wrigley, and Crockett high schools. Please specify whether coal is to be mined coal or stone coal.

Coal is to be burned, no trash permitted. The board of education reserves the right to reject any and all bids. The lowest and best bidder will be awarded the contract. Please place bid at so much per bushel. Bids must be filed with the superintendent not later than 8:00 a.m. Sept. 7, 1935.

OVA O. HANEY, Co. Supt.

DAK HILL SCHOOL NEWS

Staff for school news: Mildred Flinn, editor in chief; Lizzie Blair, Olanella Easterling, Verna Carter, Mildred Easterling.

On Monday, July 22, the Dak Hill school, with a total enrollment of 69, opened with Ray Cassidy and Raymond Davis as teachers. Forty-three of these pupils are under Mr. Cassidy in the lower grades. Prospects appear very good, and much enthusiasm and interest is being shown by teachers, parents, and students.

We have added to our schoolroom a small bulletin board on which many items and clippings of interest are posted. Both students and teachers are urged to bring news or pictures for the board. We also have a small table for our daily papers and weekly magazines and all students of upper grades are expected to give some time to them daily. Much emphasis is being put forth to encourage increased reading among all students. In other words, books, papers, or magazines, and as a suitable slogan for this drive the school selected and printed on posters the words of Bacon, "Reading maketh a full man." We look forward to the coming of our papers, the Lexington Herald, the Courier-Journal, the Licking Valley Courier, along with the Kentucky Progress and other magazines. Later on in September we will enjoy a definite "literary hour" on Friday afternoons, with readings and discussions from the Weekly Reader.

The regular monthly examinations were held Thursday and Friday, Aug. 15 and 16, with the following students being honor students in their respective grades:

First grade, Gertrude Perry.

Second grade, Jesse Sexton.

Third grade, Zola Moore.

Fourth grade, Norman Easterling.

Fifth grade, Ruth Collins.

Sixth grade, Clifford Roberts.

Eighth grade, Roderick Abrams.

Mildred Easterling of the fourth grade is absent this week, visiting relatives at Wrigley. We hope she will soon return.

A large size picture of Washington has recently been added to the upper grade room.

Last Friday a P.T.A. was organized in our school with the following parents elected: Mrs. Willis Callahan, Mrs. Avery Abrams, Mrs. Geo. Perry, Mr. Carter, Lucy Collins, and Martin Collins. The first P.T.A. program is to be given Friday, Sept. 6, on the school grounds, including a free dinner at 1 p.m. Plans are being made for a large gathering and the county superintendent, Mr. Haney, and the county agent, Mr. Writter, and other speakers will be present for short talks. All members of the community are cooperating by bringing a full basket. Many of the girls brought in nice pots of flowers with all grace and loveliness to our school room.

Thursday afternoon of last week our school was entertained by a group of church and school workers of Wyatt, formerly of Baine, Wisc. Their music on the saxophone and guitar was enjoyed by all of us, and we hope they will come again.

Last Friday morning we had a joint program for thirty minutes. The children of the two rooms sang in unison while one of our students, Mildred Flinn, played the guitar, and Mr. Davis, our teacher, gave short readings from the Bible. We plan to have these programs each Friday morning.

The second Friday our teacher read us a very good book, "The Life of Our Lord," by Charles Dickens. It was enjoyed by the students and many visiting parents. "Treasure Island" is to be read in part soon.

P.T.A. Organized

The Liberty Road school, where Miss Gladys Short is teacher, organized a Parent-Teachers association on Friday of last week, with the following officers: President, Mrs. W. T. Phillips; vice president, Mrs. Lela Short; secretary, Nancy Allee Elam; treasurer, Mary Leach. The next meeting will be on September 20.

COAL BIDS WANTED

The Morgan county board of education will accept sealed bids for the furnishing of coal to the West Liberty, Camden City, Wrigley, and Crockett high schools. Please specify whether coal is to be mined coal or stone coal.

Coal is to be burned, no trash permitted. The board of education reserves the right to reject any and all bids. The lowest and best bidder will be awarded the contract. Please place bid at so much per bushel. Bids must be filed with the superintendent not later than 8:00 a.m. Sept. 7, 1935.

OVA O. HANEY, Co. Supt.

Attendance Record

FOR THE FIRST MONTH

Dist.	Teacher	Percentage	Dist.	Teacher	Percentage
17	Ben Davis	67	15	W. M. Sewell	73
18	Anderson Lacy	69	16	Ray Byrd	73
19	Robert Lawson	70	17	Fred Burton	73
20	Dexter Evans	71	18	Leo Ball	73
21	Lexie Nickell	72	19	Oran Elam	73
22	Oliver Fanning	73	20	Mrs. Hannah Massey	73
23	Ellis Fairchild	74	21	Mark Haney	73
24	Nell Burton	75	22	Daisy Brooks	73
25	Henry Howard	76	23	Chris Elliott	73
26	Homey Davis	77	24	Lella May	73
27	Carl Ward	78	25	Norine Dunn	73
28	Allice C. Hill	79	26	Emory Green	73
29	Arnold McKenzie	80	27	Clas E. Cecil	73
30	Grace Adams	81	28	Lillian Murphy	73
31	Gard Patrick	82	29	Mada Patrick	73
32	Hagar Ray	83	30	Reva Howard	73
33	Daisy Shaver	84	31	R. B. Murphy	73
34	Arlio M. Lewis	85	32	Charles Lykins	73
35	Mrs. Russell Hale	86	33	W. B. Barker	73
36	Ima Ratliff	87	34	Arnold Brown	73
37	Henry Wells	88	35	James V. Day	73
38	Ever Ratliff	89	36	Ollie McGuffee	73
39	Hyron May	90	37	Iva Lewis	73
40	Ezra Williams	91	38	Ray Hill	73
41	Bernard Haney	92	39	Deward Douds	73
42	Woodford Cecil	93	40	Gladys Cech	73
43	Sam May	94	41	Edmond Gibbs	73
44	Henry Lacy	95	42	Dwight Wheeler	73
45	Daisy Ross	96	43	Emmeline Fugate	73
46	Clifford Long	97	44	Bruce Cecil	73
47	Gladys Short	98	45	Christine Lewis	73
48	Edward Givens	99	46	Ezra Porter	73
49	Woodrow Barber	100	47	Elizabeth Elam	No report
50	Mary S. Sewell	100	48	Glenora McKenzie	No report
51	Arthur Watson	100	49	Emory Johnson	No report
52	George Lacy	100	50	Helen Spencer	No report
53	Lady Elam	100	51	Altha Kash	No report
54	Mildred Fugate	100	52	Walter Franklin	No report
55	Mildred Stacy	100	53	Chasler Ferguson	No report
56	Faye Smith	100	54	Isaac Ferguson	No report
57	Caroline Byrd	100	55	James L. Gilliam	No report
58	Reva Elam	100	56	John Cantrell	No report
59	Ray Cassidy	100	57	Nettle Pelfrey	No report
60	Raymond Davis	100	58	Leone Hill	No report
61	Aud Fugate	100	59	Orpha Hamilton	No report
62	Mrs. Hazel Steele	100	60	Virgil Riser	No report
63	Samuel Hamilton	100	61	Edith Bentley	No report
64	Lloyd Hill	100	62	Bert Ratliff	No report
65	Orlene Reed	100	63	All teachers who have their monthly reports filed in the office will receive their first month's salary this week.
66	Maye LeMaster	100	64	W. O. PELFREY, Attendance Supr.

BLAIRS MILLS SCHOOL NEWS

The first month of school closed with a daily average of 34 pupils.

The fifth and sixth grades are working on a local cabin unit. They hope to connect it with some historical event.

The school was entertained Thursday by musicians from Wisconsin.

Edna Easterling gave a party Saturday night, Aug. 24, in honor of Miss Myrtle McCreary of Ashland. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Holbrook and daughter Bernice, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miles and daughters, Ava, Vivian, Elizabeth, and Ella, Mrs. Ollie Boyd and children Betty and Bobby, of Edwight, W. Va., Mrs. Sarah Holbrook, Mr. and Mrs. Ora Sergeant, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Cassidy, Elva Sergeant, Mable, Ova, and Arlie Sergeant, Chas. Robert, Roy, Opal, Lourdes, and Chas. Robert, Lloyd and Ray Cassidy, Robert Cassidy, Virginia and Myrtle McCreary, Moody Barker, Mr. and Mrs. David Easterling and sons Edna, Wayne and daughter Edna. Ice cream and cake were served. They were singing by the young folks. All reported a good time.

MAJOR SCHOOL NEWS

It is quite a pleasure to announce the result of the pie supper of Friday night, August 23. The proceeds from the pie supper amounted to $30.17.

This is quite a record for this school to make. The school was fortunate to have for sale twenty pies. It was also fortunate to have so many good looking girls. The girls represented in the beauty contest were Miriam Byrd of Malone, Marie Haney of Stacy Fork, Charles Johnson of Malone, and Gladys Lykins of Malone. The two receiving the highest vote were Charles Johnson with a vote of 200 and Miriam Byrd with a vote of 180. She is a former student of this school and later a student of the West Liberty high school.

The money from the pie supper is being used to buy paint for the inside of the building, window shades, and floor oil. We as teachers are making great effort to improve the school building and cultivate a greater school spirit than has ever before been done in this district.

The playground equipment which we have is a volley ball and soft ball outfit. The volley ball was bought by the teachers and the soft ball and bats were secured by selling candy. Much interest was taken by the students in buying and helping sell the candy. Plans are being made for the spring of more equipment.

We teachers have planned a school picnic which we will have in the next few weeks. All the parents have been invited to accompany the children on this picnic. Songs, games, yell, etc., are being planned for this occasion.

The school attendance has been very good. Much interest is being shown by the parents of this district.

We are very glad to have with us every two weeks Mrs. Ray Haney, one of the helping teachers. Many helpful suggestions and much information is secured from her work.

We want to thank everybody who attended our pie supper for generous support and liberal spending of money.

MRS. HAZEL STEELE,

EZRA WILLIAMS, teacher.

CHAPEL SCHOOL NOTES

Our altar. Take care of your altar each day.

There was a pie supper at the Chapel schoolhouse on Friday night, Sept. 6, for the purpose of securing money for the school. Every one is cordially invited to come and bring someone. Special music is planned.

Our hearts were very happy when we returned to our school Tuesday morning, and a new coat of paint on the inside and the outside being painted. The school room, both inside and outside, looks very nice, and we are quite proud of it. Our aim now is to get more inside equipment.

The Chapel school visited the Pekin school Friday, and we were glad to meet and know the teachers and students of Bonny and Flatgap schools who were also visitors at the Pekin school Friday. We enjoyed the day very much and wish to thank Mr. Davis and his students for such splendid courtesy. We hope they can visit our school soon.

The honor roll for the first month was as follows:

Eighth grade: Beatrice Haynes, Marie Cecil, Geneva Wheeler, Edgar Wheeler, and Edward Wheeler.

Fourth grade: Bessie Ross, Matt Smith, Dillard Roe.

Third grade: Gillie Lou Ferguson, Leonard Ross.

First grade: Burton and Norman Fry, Victor Smith, Mack and Charles Roe, Junior Ross, and Mable Smith.

All together, all together, No a thread but wool!

All together, all together, That's the way we pull!

Georgia Mae and Mable Fugate were Saturday night guests of Mildred Mathew of Holliday.

WILLIAMS CREEK SCHOOL NEWS

There will be a conference in zone 3 on Friday, Sept. 13, 1935, at Wrigley. All teachers are requested to be present. Much needed information will be given on this date.

Your presence counts points toward your bonus. The following program will be given:

—Rev. M. B. White

10:30 Song: There Are Many Places in Many Lands.

10:30 Word of Greeting.

—Prof. Clyde Lewis

10:30 Relation of Teacher to Community.

—W. O. Pelfrey

11:00 Teaching of Music in Rural Schools.

—Mildred White

11:30 Discipline in Rural Schools.

—Anna Henry

11:45 Noon.

1:00 Special music.

1:15 Teaching of First Grade Reading.

—Mrs. Nancy Turner

1:30 Presentation of History Unit.

—Gladys Short

2:00 Teaching of Silent Reading.

—Florida Cox

2:30 Round Table Discussion.

—Led by Supr. Ova O. Haney

The following teachers in zone three will meet at Wrigley on Friday, Sept. 13, 1935: Woodrow Barber, Ray Cassidy, James V. Day, Raymond Davis, Reva Elam, Oran Elam, Dexter Evans, Melba Fairchild, Cummings Fugate, Emory Green, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hale, Henry Howard, Herbert Lawson, Maye LeMaster, Iva Lewis, Wayne Lewis, Arley Lewis, Glenora McKenzie, Wendell Nickell, Mada Patrick, Ima Ratliff, Henry Wells, Ollie Fanning, Gladys Short, Altha Cash.

FLORIS V. COX,

ANNA E. HENRY,

Helping Teachers

WHAT PRICED TEACHERS?

We as teachers are the most important factor in the school organization of this county.

In recognizing this fact let us then give our worth. No long ago I heard a noted educator say that there were several hundred teachers in the state of Kentucky who were being overpaid, notwithstanding the fact the salaries were very low.

We have all too often the hasty decision to teach "until something else turns up," a scramble to make the semester hours demanded by the state requirements, and teaching perhaps for several years with an eye single to a better opening in other work.

While it can hardly be said that teachers are born, not made, still, a great deal depends upon the teacher's scholarship, professional training, and personality. Let us then strive to increase our ability. Most important of all, I think, is the correct attitude toward our work and county school system.

Last week a teacher said to me, "I know I hate to teach school worse than anybody." A teacher with this attitude can never hope to succeed.

Morgan county doesn't need any halfhearted school teachers, kickers, or teachers resentful toward administration help.

Let us ask ourselves if we are doing justice to our position, and are we giving value received?

I am heartily in favor of the help-line teachers program and shall give my utmost support to make it successful. Our cooperation is necessary to extend this program and give it more far-reaching influence. The helping teachers want our support and we should be ever ready to let them help us with our pupil problems.

The pupil is looking to us for encouragement and it is our problem to see that he gets it.

What pupils desire most is the inspiration to learn and do. The teacher who can impart this enthusiasm for education is the one who makes the greatest contribution to its continued growth and success.

J. WENDELL NICKELL

NOTICE

Emergency education classes in home economics and physical education will begin Monday, Sept. 9, in the basement of the Methodist church.

There are no school credits given, and it is free for everybody over sixteen years of age. Let's everybody come and learn something new every day.

These classes are taught five days a week. The home economics class will be taught from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. The physical education class will be given from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. If this time is not convenient let me know and I'll change it to other hours.

OPAL WATSON ELAM

LOCAL

There will be a conference in zone 3 on Friday, Sept. 13, 1935, at Wrigley. All teachers are requested to be present. Much needed information will be given on this date.

Your presence counts points toward your bonus. The following program will be given:

—Rev. M. B. White

10:30 Song: There Are Many Places in Many Lands.

10:30 Word of Greeting.

—Prof. Clyde Lewis

